

I am a local Santa Fean and a passionate epoxy/resin woodworker dedicated to creating beautiful and functional pieces of furniture and décor with the gifts I've been given by almighty God. With a keen eye for detail and a love for working with natural and complimentary materials, I strive to craft pieces that not only stand the test of time but also bring joy and beauty to everyday life.

I am a retired State of New Mexico employee who embarked on this journey in 2018. I have always enjoyed creating different types of art whether through stonework, metal work or woodwork. But as I learned the art of combining all the elements into one functional piece. I noticed how each component complimented the other. It was at that point I knew this could be special. Together with my son's creative eye and knack for photography we have amassed a wonderful following on Instagram and YouTube and have been able to share our work and talents with the world.

Whether you're looking for a custom furniture piece or a one-of-a-kind art creation. I am here to bring your vision to life.
